

-
1. Assignment: Lightly read Smith 2002 and its MSN review, to begin answering questions posed below.
 2. Introductions: What are you looking for?
 3. Professional writing: What are some types? How do they differ?
 - a. Term papers
 - b. Master's expository papers
 - c. Master's theses
 - d. PhD theses
 - e. Expository articles
 - f. Research articles
 - g. Monographs
 - h. Directives
 - i. Textbooks
 - j. Manuals
 - k. PR articles
 - l. News articles
 - i. Bowker obit
 - ii. MSRI birthday
 - m. Webpages
 - n. Personnel recommendations
 - o. Project proposals
 4. Are they relevant to this aim of this course?
 5. Features of a published expository paper
 - a. What is its subject?
 - b. What level?
 - c. Who's the author?
 - d. Who are the audience?
 - e. What are the main questions or points?
 - f. Where did these thoughts stem from?
 - g. Why was it written?
 - h. What methods are used?
 - i. What would you have to study to be able to understand them?
 - j. Are there extensions of this material?
 - k. Does this material have interesting connections to other subjects?
 - l. Are there references to supporting documents?